Dancer, Instructor, Musician & Choreographer @ TangoNY.com

Musa began dancing Argentine Tango in 2002. In 2006 he quit his full time job and became a Tango Performer and Instructor at Sandra Cameron Dance Center. In 2009 he opened his tango school under the name of Tango NY and moved his classes to Pearl Studios. Still based in New York City, Musa teaches continually group classes 4 days a week on: Mondays, Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays. He is known for taking his students to milongas after each class. He believes that the best teacher is the dance floor itself and students should dance in the real floor as much as possible.

In 2009 Musa also established his Tango Music Band called ZUM and they perform regularly in various events in NYC. He is the Rhythm Guitarist for the band.

His background as a computer engineer and guitar player helps him to understand the technical analysis of movement as well as the sensory interpretation of music. He believes in simplicity of movements and clarity of communication. "Communications is the key element of every partnership" he says, "and there should be a simple, clear language established between the partners."

His elegance on the dance floor and passion for teaching makes him unique and he keeps pushing his limits to improve his style which represents his elegance and passion.

He has performed with his partners in various Milongas/Tango Social Parties in NYC as well as private events at Edison Ballroom, Cipriani, Argentine Consulate, City Town Hall, Drom, etc.

He has featured at Italian Vogue Magazine for a special photo shoot. Also he has mentioned at The Wall Street Journal for his performance at Michaels's NYC.

He is available for shows/performances, concerts, theatre, private parties, corporate events, weddings, commercials/TV/print as well as instruction, choreography and coaching.
